

Citizens Trade Campaign Fair Trade Internship: Summer 2003

Citizens Trade Campaign (CTC) is a national coalition of environmental, labor, consumer, family farm, religious, and other civil society groups based in the United States. We are united in a common belief that international trade and investment are not ends unto themselves, but instead must be viewed as a means for achieving other societal goals such as economic justice, human rights, healthy communities, and a sound environment. CTC is currently working to defeat the Free Trade Area of the Americas and expansion of the WTO and promote alternatives to the neoliberal model of corporate globalization.

CTC provides national and local organizations, grassroots trade activists, and ordinary citizens across the U.S. an effective means to have their voices heard in Congress while working at the local level to unify those voices, educate the public and press, and hold elected officials accountable to their constituencies at home.

An intern will have the opportunity to learn about grassroots organizing as well as how to work with Congress to influence policy. Working in a small office offers an intern a diverse variety of responsibilities. CTC's major campaign over the summer will be the mobilization for the FTAA Miami Ministerial in November 2003.

Intern responsibilities will include:

- Distributing information to Congress
- Writing and producing informational materials for grassroots
- Research
- Attending trade-related meetings
- Organizing briefings & meetings
- Media outreach
- Administrative duties

Qualifications:

- Excellent research, writing, and computer skills
- Ability to work under pressure and meet deadlines
- Interest and general knowledge of trade and globalization issues
- Spanish fluency a plus
